About the Conference

The Counselor of the 21st century is faced with new challenges from social media, telemental health, changes in the federal confidentiality regulations for addiction treatment programs, multicultural changes in society, LGBTQ and a host of other emerging issues. Keeping your ethics professional is a course designed to sensitize practitioners to a wide range of ethical and legal issues in the practice of counseling and to provide them with suggestions to help them deal responsibly with these crucial issues. Additionally, the training will address issues related to confidentiality, informed consent, and multiple relationships.

Who Should Attend:

This course is for LPCs, LAPCs, and Addiction Professionals.

Continuing Education Credits of 6 core hours have been applied for through GACA, IC&RC, and the Licensed Professional Counselors Association of Georgia.

Learning Objectives

By the end of the session, participants will be able to:

1. Differentiate between personal and professional relationships as it relates to counseling.
2. Identify somethings that are Always OK, somethings that Maybe OK, and somethings that are Never OK in a professional counseling relationship.
3. Discuss the challenges to confidentiality in online communications and social networking.
4. Managing Boundaries and Multiple Relationships with clients from multicultural backgrounds.
5. Describe 9 Characteristics of Counselors who engage in questionable, unethical, or unprofessional Behavior.
6. Explore 5 Transference Patterns exhibited by clients.
7. Review 6 Potentially Detrimental Counselor-Client Relationships
8. Review the new Federal Confidentiality Guidelines (42 CFR Part 2) for addiction programs.
